DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: applicant has failed to properly define the term "AD count" (page 7, line 17).

Appropriate correction is required.

Drawings

The drawings are objected to because the applicant has failed to distinguish enclosure 20 from housing 21 (Figure 1; page 4 lines 14-17). These references appear to be the same element. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3, 8, 14-15 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 5,619,076 (Layden). Layden discloses precharge circuitry for the connection and disconnection of batteries to uninterruptible power systems. With reference to Figure 1, a group of capacitors 18 are connected between main connector 15 ("first contact") and ground 12 ("second contact"). Further, a precharge resistor 32, which controls current surge (column 4, lines 65-66) is connected between line 16 and node 31 ("third contact"). Main connect 15 additionally acts as a detector for the presence of batteries 11, such that when the batteries are connected or disconnected, linkage 28 drives auxiliary switch 25, which has a selective connection of contacts 27 and 31. Housing and connections are shown in Figures 3-5.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 18-23 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being anticipated by US 6,204,574 (Chi). Chi discloses a backup power supply device (UPS). With respect of Figure 4, backup power supply 21 has an outer case, an integral utility outlet 36 for supplying AC utility power, and a connector 32 for supplying DC power from a rechargeable battery. It is not clear which of connector 32 and receptacle 1112 is the female connector; however, this selection would be an obvious design choice. Additionally, it would have been obvious to make the battery separable from the backup power supply device, for such an advantage as easily replacing a faulty battery. See In re Dulberg, 289 F.2d 522, 523, 129 USPQ 348, 349 (CCPA 1961) (The claimed structure, a lipstick holder with a removable cap, was fully met by the prior art except that in the prior art the cap is "press fitted" and therefore not manually removable. The court held that "if it were considered desirable for any reason to obtain access to the end of [the prior art's] holder to which the cap is applied, it would be obvious to make the cap removable for that purpose.").

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2, 4-7, 9-13, and 16-17 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. With respect to claims 2 and 10-13, the prior art does not teach the battery cartridge connectable to the precharge contacts of claim 1. With respect to claims 4-7, 9, and 16-17, the prior art does not disclose such a sensing circuit.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

US 5,821,636 (Baker) discloses a redundant source switching/distribution unit.

US 6,310,783 (Winch) discloses a modular UPS system.

US 5,216,371 (Nagai) discloses a battery sensing and charging system.

Art Unit: 2836

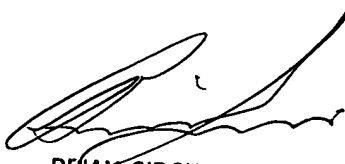

US 5,174,787 (Shirai) discloses a sequential connector.
